

Diana Stephens, MD

DERMATOLOGIST

Accepting new patients

Dr. Stephens graduated from the State University of New York at Geneseo with a Bachelor of Science, cum laude, major in biochemistry and minor in mathematics. Following her undergraduate studies, she spent one year working at the University of Pennsylvania as a research specialist, conducting both basic science and clinical research. She graduated from Drexel University College of Medicine as a member of Alpha Omega Alpha medical honor society. After spending 3 years of residency as an integrated Plastic Surgery resident at the University of Rochester, she found her true calling in Dermatology and went on to complete her Dermatology residency at the University of Rochester, serving as chief resident in her final year. Outside of work, she enjoys spending time with her children and husband.
